Invitation Message

EAFONS was established in 1997 with the participation of seven Asian countries. Since then, the Forum has been held annually for doctoral nurse academics and their students.

The Japanese Association of Nursing Programs in University (JANPU) is very pleased to host the 12th EAFONS, "Global Contributions through Nursing Doctoral Education in East Asia," to be held at St. Luke's College of Nursing, Tokyo, Japan, from March 13 to 14, 2009.

The 12th EAFONS will provide ample opportunities for nursing faculty members and doctoral students to form international networks with the participants and to engage in new research or educational work contributing to improvements in nursing standards and consequently to people's health.

We cordially invite you to participate in the 12th EAFONS.

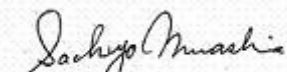

We are looking forward to seeing you in Tokyo, Japan.

What is EAFONS?

The East Asian Forum of Nursing Scholars (EAFONS) was established in 1997 by Professor Ida Martinson and her colleagues from the School of Nursing (formally the Department of Nursing and Health Sciences), The Hong Kong Polytechnic University, with the aim of strengthening and enhancing the quality of doctoral education in nursing, as well as creating an academic environment and social network for East Asian Scholars through international collaboration and cooperation.
